

Ask LAWYER

More than 560 people helped!

IndyBar volunteers donated both their time and expertise to provide community members in need with invaluable legal advice and guidance at Ask a Lawyer on April 12. This biannual event is the IndyBar's largest pro bono program and has helped more than 3,000 Hoosiers over the past two years. Thank you to the more than 110 attorneys, paralegals and law students who made this crucial service possible!

Ask a Lawyer was held in 12 locations throughout the city, including Indianapolis Public Library branches.

Paralegals like Cheryl Fine of Golden Rule Insurance Company serve as site coordinators, assisting attorneys and members of the public.

Joel Swider, Riley Bennett & Egloff LLP, speaks with a community member at the College Avenue library branch.

Deborah Caruso, Rubin & Levin PC, answers a call. Advice was also given by phone in addition to the face-to-face sites.

Law students like Lana Lawson get an opportunity to shadow attorneys. She's here with Anthony Sullivan, Barnes & Thornburg LLP.

Barnes & Thornburg's Steve Badger and Annette England provide assistance at the Central Library.
